

I know personally that Airl's work in Christian ministry has truly affected many in the listening area, including myself. Despite its weak reception in some areas, multitudes listen to the unique music choices offered by so few stations. The positive messages of Airl serve the public in numerous beneficial ways, including an ideal station for families. But listeners of all ages rejoice in the availability of Airl and its absence would be a strike a cord of unhappiness in the community. Preserving Airl in my home area is a necessity and the FCC must not let it disappear. Thank you.
